Tajuk/ Nama Kursus/ Nama Program	BODY LANGUAGE, INVESTIGATIVE INTERVIEWING & DECEPTION DETECTION.
Sinopsis	This 4-day course provides a systematic approach to Deception Detection for investigations, interviews, and interrogations. Centered around the OWLS methodology—Observation While Listening Simultaneously—it enables officers to effectively interpret both nonverbal and verbal cues of deception. Through evidence-backed techniques, participants learn to uncover truth by overcoming ingrained beliefs, biases, and myths that may hinder accurate judgment. Key elements include questioning strategies, perceptive tools, and investigative techniques that support truth-seeking in a methodical, scientific manner rather than relying on speculative assumptions. Officers also learn the dual risks in deception detection: mistakenly believing a lie or disbelieving the truth. The course addresses the importance of clusters of behavioral indicators appearing within seconds of strategic questioning, often signifying the need for further investigation. Officers are trained to recognize that while deception clues aren't absolute proof of crime, they warrant closer scrutiny. The course also clarifies that the absence of cues doesn't confirm truthfulness, as some people don't "leak." By learning to read body language accurately and applying effective interviewing skills, officers enhance their ability to detect deception and pursue the truth professionally.
